

A CORSET CARNIVAL

50c Corsets for 39c

Every store in America sells these kinds for 50c. So do we excepting during the "Corset Carnival."

That they are made by the Loomer's D. H. & C. Corset Co. is a sufficient recommend for their quality and style.

These are excellent Corset values at 50c. We know of none better. At 39c they are a great Corset bargain. Anticipate your wants.

Menard; treasurer, John O'Malley; auditing committee, John McIver, S. Cassalini and Fred Connor; delegates to the Central Labor Union, E. M. Menard, Fred Snow and Patrick F. Glynn.

The night operator at the telephone exchange in Rutland appears to have rendered signal service at the outset of the great fire there Sunday and his timely action undoubtedly prevented some loss of life. This recalls an incident in connection with a fire at Barre some time ago, when two business blocks were burned. In one of those buildings a leading granite manufacturer had rooms, and it was the thoughtfulness and quick action of the night operator at the telephone exchange, in calling him and giving him his first knowledge of the fire, that saved his life. He subsequently expressed his gratitude by presenting the young lady with a handsome diamond ring.—Ludlow Tribune.

Patrolman David Faulkner has received a letter from James Thurston, formerly of Barre, who had to have both feet amputated because they were frozen. The letter tells how the thing came about. Thurston, while visiting a few miles out of St. Paul, Minn., started to walk to his temporary stopping-place, three miles away, when he ran into a barbed wire fence, in the contact the artery in his right wrist was cut open. Thurston fainted from loss of blood, and when he came to again, both feet and both hands were frozen. His physicians found it necessary to amputate both the lower extremities. Thurston is doing as well as could be expected. He speaks in highest terms of his treatment, especially from the members of the granite cutter's union.

TALK OF THE TOWN.

Mrs. George Creation of North Main street is much better, after a six weeks' illness.

Mrs. Thomas Rutledge of the Miles block, who has been ill with heart trouble, is improving.
